

Consulting Services

The NonprofitCenters Network can help you realize your dream of a successful, sustainable nonprofit center or shared services program. Whether you need an experienced practitioner to review your plans or support in bringing together a community of stakeholders, we can leverage our extensive network of experts to provide one-on-one guidance to meet your needs.

Customized Training

Build the capacity of your community by bringing a customized training to your city or region. Our interactive curricula are designed for up to 35 participants to explore the strategic considerations in creating and operating a successful nonprofit center and/or shared services program. Topics covered can include ownership and governance structures, financing options, program development and real estate issues. Peer networking opportunities and hands-on project planning are built into the seminar.

Planning Facilitation

Bring your board of directors, project partners and community stakeholders together to set a unified strategic vision and plan. The customized process provides your team with a tested roadmap for project development, including real world examples and interactive activities that will move your plan forward.

Community Needs Assessment

Need help identifying potential partners or tenants? Want to find out which organizations in your community are interested in shared space, and what they can afford to pay? NCN can conduct a broad or a targeted community needs assessment process to gather both quantitative and qualitative data to help inform your development process.

Feasibility Study

Careful planning is a key component in developing a successful nonprofit center or shared services program. NCN can help you put together revenue projections and financial models and conduct due diligence to determine how much your project will really cost.

Project Review

With knowledge of more than 150 nonprofit centers across North America, The NonprofitCenters Network can provide an expert review of your project plans. Whether you are choosing an ownership model, looking at space plans, or developing an operations strategy, take advantage of our neutral third-party perspective to help you solve pressing problems or trouble shoot before you spend big money.

Project Development

Creating a nonprofit center requires a large cross-sector team of stakeholders and industry professionals. Who is coordinating all of the pieces and making sure that your interests are still driving the project? NCN can help you find an experienced project manager to oversee your development process from start to finish.
